

's-Hertogenbosch, Netherlands

The University of Florida's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences welcomes all students to study in Den Bosch, Netherlands at HAS University of Applied Sciences, for a semester or full academic year.

Highlights

Studying at HAS means being at the center of society. We link theory to practice. You often go out in the field, visiting companies and organizations, and talking to people. You carry out research and experiments. HAS is known for its lecturers' level of involvement. We also work closely with businesses. Moreover, we offer a whole range of facilities. From the latest ICT facilities to greenhouses, climate chambers and labs. Studying horticulture in the Netherlands puts you in an excellent position of finding a dream job in the business of horticulture. Taking courses in Horticulture & Business Management is your stepping stone into this dynamic, innovative and international business! It brings you all the knowledge and skills you need for a bright future in a wonderful green business. The curriculum is comprehensive with both technical and business subjects. You will discover the world of plants, including biology, cultivation techniques and refinement, and learn about the complete chain, from producer to consumer, with subjects that include business and farm economics, management, and marketing.
